

If you've been affected by the 2020 Oregon wildfires, there are resources and support available for you and those you love.

Call the Safe+Strong helpline 1-800-923-HELP (4357) or visit our website at safestrongoregon.org/wildfire to get immediate mental and emotional help.

Free confidential resources are available right now.

There are community and governmental organizations here to support you by:

- Helping wildfire survivors like you regain a sense of control over your life
- Providing information about disaster-related community resources
- Helping you understand and process your reactions to disaster and recovery
- Connecting you to tools to support yourself and your loved ones
- Providing you referrals to professional services as needed

For immediate help:

Call the Safe + Strong Helpline now at 1-800-923-HELP (4357)

Visit safestrongoregon.org/wildfire for a full list of resources and support.

Additional resources:

FEMA Helpline:
1-800-621-FEMA (3362)

If you experienced loss or damage due to wildfires beginning Sept. 7, 2020 in Oregon, you may be eligible for disaster aid. Register today by visiting DisasterAssistance.gov, calling 1-800-621-3362 or using the FEMA mobile app.

If you're looking for additional recovery resources such as unemployment assistance, food and emergency services, visit wildfire.oregon.gov.

By county:

Clackamas County Health, Housing & Human Services
1-503-655-8585

ADAPT of Douglas County
1-800-866-9780

Jackson County Health & Human Services
1-541-774-8201

Klamath Basin Behavioral Health
1-541-883-1030

Lane County Health & Human Services
1-541-687-4000

Lincoln County Health & Human Services
1-866-266-0288

Linn County Health Services
1-800-560-5535

Marion County Health & Human Services
1-503-588-5288

Helping our Oregon communities recover from wildfires

What to look for

If you're having trouble coping, you're not alone. Here's a list of common reactions that may mean you should reach out for more support.

Are you feeling:

- Anxious or fearful?
- Guilt or sadness?
- Numb or disconnected from life?
- Uninterested or unmotivated?
- Angry or irritable?
- Lonely or socially isolated?
- Distracted or disoriented?

Are you having trouble:

- Concentrating, remembering or making decisions?
- Talking about what happened or listening to others?
- With thoughts about the fire?
- Getting out of bed?
- Doing things you normally do, like paying bills?

Do you find yourself:

- Feeling tired all the time?
- Feeling tense or easily startled?
- Having headaches or other physical pain?
- Eating too much or too little?
- Experiencing nausea, stomach aches or diarrhea?
- Having sweats or chills?
- Using alcohol or drugs to cope?
- Staying away from friends or family?
- Having too much or too little energy?

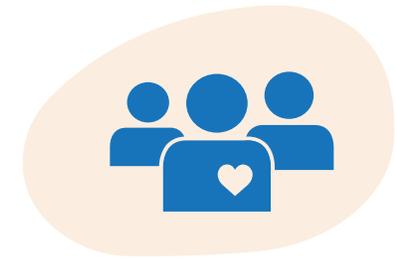

Ways you can take care of yourself

Healthy ways to deal with stress

- Reach for what's helped you cope in the past
- Talk with others as much as you can
- Remove distractions from sleep and rest
- Exercise
- Eat healthier
- Limit your news consumption
- Listen to music, meditate or try focused breathing
- Write in a daily journal
- Schedule activities you enjoy
- Maintain or establish new routines
- Accept that your reactions to the disaster are normal
- If symptoms linger or intensify, talk to a professional

Try to avoid

- Any violence, conflict or risky behavior
- Blaming yourself or others
- Excessive use of alcohol or drugs
- Withdrawing from family and friends

How to stay hopeful and resilient

Recovering from any natural disaster takes time and can feel overwhelming. Here are some reminders to help you stay hopeful and resilient.

Reach out – Accept help and support from people who care.

Look ahead – Know your healing has purpose toward the future.

Accept change – Accept what you can't control so you can focus on what you can.

Move forward – Do one thing each day to keep working toward your goals.

Decisive action – Try to take action rather than putting off or avoiding tasks.

Self-discovery – Be open to opportunities to learn about yourself.

Trust yourself – Nurture a positive view of yourself and your ability to face challenges.

Keep perspective – See the big picture and focus on what's most important in your life.

Build hope – Visualize what you want rather than focusing on obstacles.

There's help for you and those you love.
Reach out for support today.